In the interest of full disclosure, at the end of the free training. I will be offering an opportunity to work directly with me to help you implement the strategies discussed. This is completely optional. While my assistance may shorten your learning curve and improve your results, it is by no means necessary for you to begin implementing what you learn in the training on your own right away.

DISCLAIMER. Your level of success in attaining the results you desire depend on many factors, including (but not limited to) the time you devote to the strategies discussed, your background, experience, and work ethic. The average person who follows any “how to” information gets little to no results. All business entails risk and requires substantial and consistent effort. If you are not willing to accept that, this training is not for you.
